> Marketing Materials

Leaflet generally has a more professional graphic design, and its contents more carefully thought out. Often leaflet printing is on A4 or A5 paper.

Flyer is generally a single sheet of paper printed on either one or both of its sides and weighing between 200gsm to 350gsm.

Folder is a folding cover or holder, typically made of stiff paper or card, for storing loose papers.

VI. Experience WHAT WE HAVE DONE

> Marketing Materials Design

It defines what a company's digital marketing strategies need to be. We give some good ideas to those over diverse periods and explain how those will be carried out in full. What we seeks is to convert clients and get them to hire specific services. It moreover looks to plan successful strategies for a business in the short, medium, and long term.

> Digital Advertising

Digital advertising is any visual ad, written or video, that you see on the internet. This includes pop ups that appear before you can log onto your daily crossword puzzle or information about a new drug that comes into your Facebook feed. Sometimes these ads appear when you search for a new topic. They are distinguished (sometimes) by a small box that says "ad". Advertising is part of the overall program of digital marketing.
